FREW & CAMPBELL PURLISHERS AND PROPERTURE.

SATURDAY, NOV. 13, 1857.

CINCINNATI has a new Club-house, and already the churchmen are pouring hot shot and shell into it. They denounce it as a dram-drinking and card playing in stitution, but the wealthiest people of the town frequent it nevertheless.

THE London Economist has the following remarks on the market of American securities: "United States bonds have improved considerably, the attention of investors here being now more than ever turned to solid securities, while in Amerca, the defeat of a political party in Ohio, who advocated currency inflation, has restored confidence in the future stability of the Government." What then may be hoped for as the effect of Penn-may be hoped for as the effect of Fennsylvania confirming the verdict of Ohio?

More trouble appears to be brewing between the Western farmers and the trunk railroads. New York grain receivers have been notified by the Chicago shippers that unless these roads recede from their recent advance to sixty cents per bushel for wheat, the grain will be stored for the winter; the farmers preferring to take the chances of higher prices next spring, to letting the railroads eat up what they think the lion's share now. There is evidently much feeling on the subject out there. On the other hand it is claimed by the companies that the revised schedules have been fixed at rates that will barely ever running expenses.

Now the dogs of Ohio will howl with with the company hung up a miniature to define the price of the conductor, he was hung, and so on Once we hung all the officers of the Telegran and Ispaham road, and from that time there was no accident on that line. The successors were tolerably careful and the company hung up a miniature to allow in the conductor to the conductor, he was hung and promite the revised schedules have been fixed at rates that will barely ever running expenses.

Now the dogs of Ohio will howl with delight. It is officially announced at Columbus that the constitutional amendment relative to the taxing of dogs was lost at the late election. Although four times as many persons voted for it as voted against it, yet the number of affirmative votes was less than half of the whole number cast. Only about two-thirds of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used their pencils updated by the control of the voters used th retive votes was less than half of the whole number cast. Only about two thirds of the voters used their pencils upon the amendments, at the foot of the ticket, and in all cases where the "For" and "Against" remained untouched the votes were counted, according to law, as in the negative.

Insantiv was successfully pleaded in defense against a prosecution in New Haven, Connecticut, for bigamy. The indicted man, described as "a young carpenter of considerable ingenuity," married Annie N. Smith, of Jamaica, L. I, in 1873, and in 1874 Ellen Albee, of Branford, Connecticut. Both wives were in court, and showed considerable attachment for the accused. It was proved that he had been confined in an Insane Asylum. The jury found him not guilty, on the ground of insanity, to the appliants of the spectators. It appears that the 1873, and in 1874 Ellen Albee, of Bran-ford, Connecticut. Both wives were in court, and showed considerable attach-ment for the accused. It was proved that he had been confined in an Insane Asy-lum. The jury found him not guilty, on the ground of insanity, to the applause of the spectators. It appears that the time he was in an Insane Asylum was be-fore alther marriage.

THE Pacific was wrecked a few miles south of Cape Flattery, at the entrance of the Straits of San Juan du Fuca. Still further south, on the same coast, the Brother Jonathan was lost on the last day of July, 1865, only sixteen persons being saved out of the one hundred and sixty-two who were on board. The vessel, while a heavy sea was running, plunged in the trough of the sea and struck a hidden rock. She sunk in less than an hour, and only one small boat reached the shore with any survivors. One passen-ger, among those left to perish, calmly ote his will while standing on the deck of the sinking ship. This latest disaster, so nearly a counterpart of the wreck of the Brother Jonathan, ought to provoke the most rigid inquiry. Both ships were old; both had been rebuilt at San Francisco, and both went to pieces without having any adequate provision for saving men and women. You see, the victors and the careless—which is to say, the naturally depraved and weak-minded—were all hung, leaving only the industrious and clear-headed to live and perpetuate the species. Consequently it was a splendid people. I am, perhaps, a fair speciment, falls but little short of three hundred million dollars. The public expenses are greater than those of the United States, and only about one-seventh less than those of the United Kingdom of Great Britain. The larger portion of this sun comes from direct taxation and not from the revenues raised at the custom house. With a population of 27,000,000, Italy has but $50,000,000 in savings banks, about three dollars for each inbanks, about three dollars for each in habitant, while New York and several other States in this country have on de-

Three centuries ago, says Abou Ben Adhem in his advice, there was a kingdon to the north of what is now Persianthe inhabitants of which were with the present Persians—in which these things no crime to speak of—in accidents, no mistakes, no nothing.
